CAMPUS CLIMATE

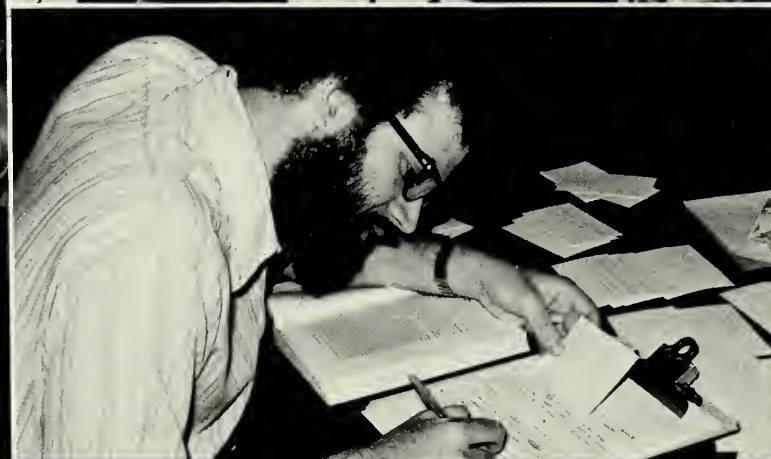

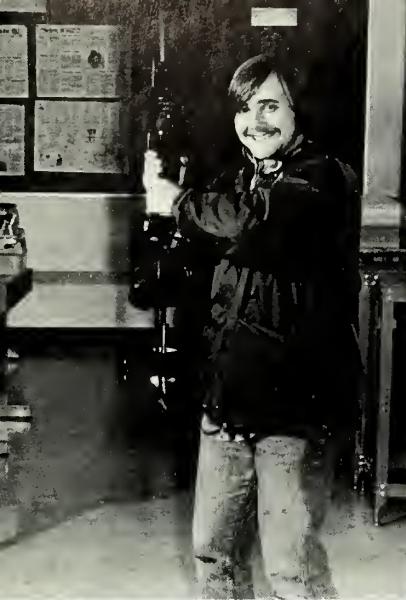

ACADEMIC MYTH:

... and the guidance counselor said smilingly,
"You'll need this for college . . ."

Smiling faces, frowning faces, laughing faces, crying faces . . . are reality

1975 — The year they spent slicking over America for its birthday.

And slick they did. Gone were the words "change", "revolution", "rights" and other slogans of the past. They were replaced instead with "party", "clubbing", and "dressed". Slick magazine ads shouted the return of make-up, party clothes, curly hair. Political interest was replaced with heated discussions concerning the outcome of the Stanley Cup Championship.

Towering Inferno, Jaws, Earthquake, Tidal Wave . . . all allowed the public to watch . . . gone with the Serpico, "honest cop" image of '74. "Waves" on campus were treated (or not treated) with the current mode. What reaction would a strike have brought in other years? Although there was some involvement and concern especially by SGA and campus publications, the prevailing feeling was whether or not the semester would be cancelled, credit given, classes made up, or what to do with all that free time. There was no banding together for a cause, any cause. No fault, no blame, just fact.

Anybody remember Rt. 322? If one were to follow that seemingly forgotten road from say, the Garden State Parkway to the Delaware Memorial Bridge, one would discover that it is virtually impossible to follow without paying close attention to road signs. The road crosses and criss-crosses many major and minor roads like a pretzel, and yet runs smoothly through the center of campus. Are student lives (not to mention limbs) really that worthless?? Is the project now to be simply discarded?

Perhaps the economy was to blame. A college diploma didn't seem to mean that much anymore. '75 grads were told repeatedly of the high unemployment rate, the difficulty in finding a job (even Phi Beta Kappans were clerking in the Acme) . . . Depressing? Possibly. Through it all though, I hope the spirit which motivated the changes of the 60's and early 70's doesn't altogether disappear . . . it would be a shame to lapse into another era like the 50's to bring the country to another "awakening" in the 80's. But enough. This yearbook is dedicated to Glassboro State College, 1975. We don't change the image . . . but merely reflect it.

NEGOTIATE

LOCAL 2373
AFT - AFL-CIO

"... follow his conscience and carefully make judgements on whether or not to cross picket lines..." this advice was offered to students by GSC President Mark Chamberlain in the Nov. 26 issue of the WHIT concerning the state wide job action taken by members of the American Federation of Teachers in November.

Although it is illegal for public employees to strike, AFT members of the eight New Jersey State colleges walked out of their classrooms at 7 am Monday, November 18, claiming breach of contract on the part of the state. In the contract agreed upon in February 1974, a wage re-opener was included with the bargaining date set to begin October 1, 1975.

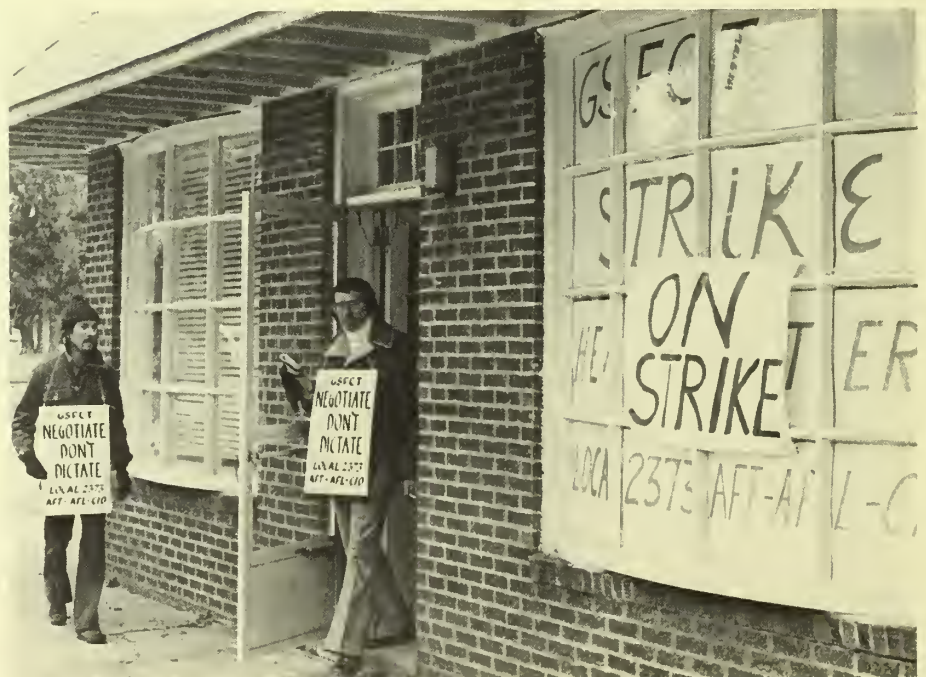

In early October, the AFT submitted its demands for a salary increase, medical and dental benefits and job security. According to Dr. Rose Glassberg, President AFT Local 2373, the state did not offer any counter proposals.

State officials claimed they were not in a position to bargain at the time because of the state budget deficit.

Striking teachers and sympathizing students battled the near freezing temperatures outside campus buildings while many heated debates between the opposing sides went on within. At an SGA sponsored information session, approximately 750 students and faculty members listened to arguments by Dr. Glassberg and Dr. John Collins, communications department chairperson, who contended that "the union is only out for itself, and that the more successful the strike is, the more likely a tuition increase will be." He explained that the union was not negotiating for the students.

In rebuttal, Glassberg, promised that the union would insist in future negotiations with the state that there would be "no cuts in faculty lines" and that negotiations for salary increases be completed before the (Department of Higher Education) budget is completed.

The majority of students did not feel they completely understood the strike, but whatever side they supported it was very clear where they stood — in the middle. Few students seemed to know what their role was. For many, it was an abrupt awakening to the fact that the safe little ivy-covered haven which comes to mind when the words "college", "professor", or "educator" is mentioned simply doesn't exist. For perhaps the first time, professors dropped from their authority status to human beings who draw paychecks, buy groceries and pay mortgages.

Announcement of the end of the strike came early Thanksgiving morning when the AFT and the state agreed to go into mediation. A seven-point agreement was drawn up hours later.

One of the biggest victories according to Glassberg was the state's agreement what "the Governor and the AFT share a common goal — to preserve and expand the public higher education system in New Jersey, to maintain tuition levels and enrollments to afford educational opportunities to all those who seek higher education, and thereby preserve and expand job opportunities in higher education."

Office of the President

The resignation of College President Mark Chamberlain was called for by Dr. Richard Mitchell, English-Communications department professor, at the Board of Trustees meeting on May 7.

Mitchell charged that Chamberlain was too "indecisive and inactive" and that the College should begin looking for a new president.

The English professor also termed a "sloppy and insulting" administrative procedure the awarding of an honorary degree to an artist-in-residence who was still on campus.

Acting Board Chairman Mr. Clarence Clark stated that no abrupt decision would be made regarding Chamberlain's removal but that an evaluation committee for administrators would be consulted.

EMPLOYMENT

Student workers got a break here this year — all those not employed through the Federal Work Study Program were hired by the College personnel office on July 1, using the Affirmative Action Program.

According to Mr. Louis Weber, personnel director, "this will eliminate the monopoly of funds; we will make opportunities available to all people."

Under the Federal Work Study Program, students are paid $2.25 per hour, working a maximum of 15 hours per week.

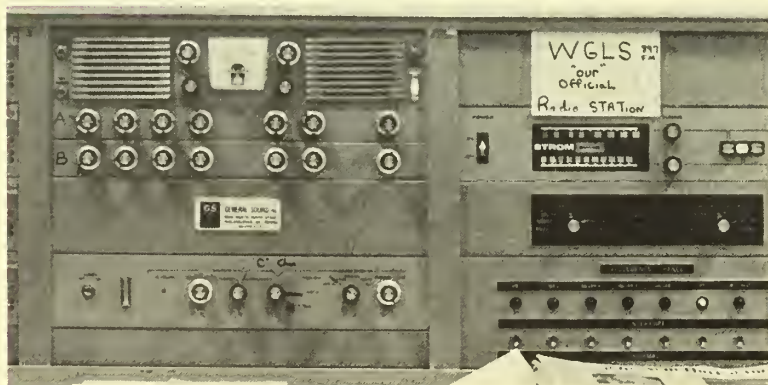

For the first time, WGLS 89.7 FM, became the "sound of summer" in '75" to many area residents who avoided the mass exodus in May to spend their summer in the 'boro.

A plan is currently under way to make WGLS the center of educational radio programming in So. Jersey. It includes replacing WGLS' present 87-foot antenna with a 300-foot antenna and operating at 8,000 watts of power instead of the present 250 watts. In addition, the station's transmitter would be moved to Chesilhurst, N.J. to avoid interference with Philadelphia's WPVI-TV which operates on a similar wave length.

Station Manager Jim Servino said the plan, would increase the station's listenership 10 times. He added that the proposal complements the College's plans for becoming more active in surrounding communities since it would extend the College beyond the limits of the campus.

WGLS radio, in conjunction with the freshman class, hosted Project Santa from 9 am December 10-13. Over $13,000 dollars in money, toys, and clothing was raised to aid the poor of Gloucester County during the holiday season. The 72 hour marathon was broadcast live this year from the student center ballroom.

Students were kept entertained by the various activities and antics of those responding to pledges of money. Some pledges that were carried out included a massage, head shaving, and numerous song and dance routines.

ALL-COLLEGE WEEKEND

Several thousand students participated in All-College Weekend at Glassboro from May 8-11.

A coffee house began the festivities Thursday night followed by an Abbott and Costello short and the film "The Way We Were". Free ice cream and punch were provided.

On Friday, a beer and pizza bash was held on the football field. Unfortunately, most GSC students took the term "bash" literally. "The Last Tango in Paris" was shown later on in the evening . . . (to soothe everyone to sleep?)

The music of "Controband" was featured at the dinner dance in the Student Center ballroom Saturday night.

The concert on Sunday night proved to be the best of the year at Glassboro, showing that not all of our concerts run the gamut from A to B. Livingston Taylor was highlighted with selections "Carolina", "My Dad," and a mellow interpretation of "Over The Rainbow", Liv's one claim to fame. Songwriter's Tim Moore and Danny O'Keefe were also on the bill.

Things were going on outside, too. The Class of '77 sponsored "Montage" an excellent local group who performed before hundreds behind the Student Center, making a warm day a perfect day not to be in class.

In the evening, a different sound was heard — the folk music of singers Ed Ryan, Toni Delaney and Jim among others.

Something for everyone? Well, maybe not everyone, but certainly better than the usual GSC fare. Congrats, SAB.

Rathskeller

The long awaited on-campus bar, the "Rathskeller" opened its doors on December 3. There was no ceremony, no ribbon cutting, and no one bothered to record who drank the first beer or from the first dollar to pass over the bar. The opening was declared excellent and a success.

But after a few nights of operation, the Rathskeller proved to be inadequate and more of a hassle than it was worth. If you didn't arrive at the "skeller" by 8 pm weeknights and 6 pm on weekends, you might as well forget the idea and head for Mazzeo's or the Main Street and wait for the Rathskeller crowd to come over after closing.

If you were one of the early birds or were lucky enough to know someone working the back door, then the Rathskeller provided a good place for you to stand around, talk to friends and see familiar faces. The only problem was that there were more faces in the hallway outside than there were inside the bar.

Homecoming 1974-75 was a mixed bag of delights which included pageant, parade, football game, alumni-student dinner-dance, and concert. There was something for everybody's taste and style, and when the three-day weekend was over, one could easily say that the time and effort put into making it paid off well.

The 14th Annual Miss GSC Pageant opened the weekend before a capacity crowd in Wilson on Friday, November 15. Nineteen contestants competed in evening gowns, swimsuits and displays of talent. Points were accumulated in each category for poise, performance, and charm. Patricia Everett, speech and theatre major, was crowned Miss GSC of 1975 and received $750 in scholarship money and a chance to compete in the Miss New Jersey Pageant in July.

Saturday morning featured the Homecoming Parade with "A Salute To The Movies", this year's theme. Six bands, numerous scouting units from throughout the area and around Glassboro, and 14 floats representing fraternities, dorms, classes and bureaus paraded through the town to the delight of the crowd. Some of the box office bonanzas (and bombs) represented by the floats included "American Graffiti", "Cabaret", "Patt on", "Showboat", "The Poseidon Adventure" and "The Ten Commandments". Floats were judged according to closeness to theme, originality and general workmanship. Trophy awards were presented to the winning entries during the halftime ceremonies at the GSC-William Patterson game.

The evening's dinner-dance was held in the Student Center ballroom and was sold out to nearly 500 students, alumni. Music was provided by an oldies group called "The Grease Band".

Homecoming concluded with two concerts in Esby gym on Sunday evening. A sellout crowd of 2,000 watched Deodato and his 10 piece orchestra along with J.F. Murphy and Salt.

Glassboro State Profs put it all together this past season. The coaching staff and the players, with the experience of a previous season of action, were aware of each other's styles and abilities. This was all assembled like a machine with the precision timing that was needed to make them the 1974 N.J.S.C.A.C. champions. The start of the season was rather slow for the Profs, however, through continual perseverance they were able to capture their goal, "the title," as they compiled a 2-2-1 record.

Exceptional players of the season? The entire team put on an outstanding performance, but those who received high honors were:

Pete Castner (All-American A.P., All-Honorable Mention)

Brian Gilman (All-Conference)

Marty McLaughlin (All-Conference)

Robert Reid (All-Conference)

The final record of the Profs was 6-3-1. Although that does not appear to be championship season, Glassboro combined pride and ability to come out State Champs.

Combining tremendous effort and cooperation with the veteran coaching abilities of Mr. Sam Porch, the Glassboro State College soccer team put together a 6-8-1 overall record for the 1977 season.

Glassboro's 0-4-1 record in the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference confirms Porch's statement that "the NJSCAC is the toughest small college soccer conference in the country."

One of the outstanding players for the season who deserves recognition for his fine performance is team goalie Tom Ross, who for the second year in a row made the conference all star team and the all New Jersey College and University team. Tom is also regional All American.

The seniors on the team who are leaving next season will "all be missed," said Porch, "however, all the vacant spots can be filled with upcoming players from a much improved Junior Varsity team."

"The morale was excellent on both J.V. and Varsity," exclaimed Porch, "as they were a very close knit team and a pleasure to work with."

This year, the Girl's Hockey team was all together outstanding and exciting to watch. As they compiled a 7-2-0 record, each individual player had a very rewarding season; each team member was selected to the All-College Team.

A culminating highlight of the season came when Gloria Byard was selected to the U.S. squad for all colleges across the nation.

Coached by Dr. Mary Rice, the successful team came to an exceptional ending as they went undefeated throughout the tournament.

Under the fine direction of Coach Fritz, the Cross Country team put out one of the best records in the history of G.S.C. The harriers ran off to a 10-1 season, beating the best record dating back to 1962.

Running at their best, the pros clinched the State title. They were undefeated in the conference, giving them their second title in eleven years.

The state championship was not enough for the harriers as they placed third in the NJCUCC. The next and last tournament of the season was the Division III Championships in Chicago. The pros placed a respectable 17 among 73.

Qualifying for the nationals was the ultimate and most satisfying achievement. Much recognition and applause is given for their fine performance.

DEFENSE!

Glassboro lost its bid to become the number one NCAA Division III team in the nation, but Head Coach Jack Collins will agree that being number two isn't all bad.

Nevertheless, the excellent performance of the 74-75 varsity basketball team is something to be proud of. It was their intimidating, tenacious defense, that brought them titles and recognition. We can all agree that their play was all-together superb!

Team records, as usual, fail to show what the season was like. The long journey was off to a slow start and quite nerve-recking. Impressive wins came against highly-touted teams predicting what kind of season was in store for the Profs.

Team unity and quality increased, as the season progressed. There were, of course, several heart-breakers. But despite them the mighty profs continued their long journey. The climax of the season came with key wins over Wm. Paterson, Montclair, and the Univ. of Delaware.

DEFENSE was the key element throughout the season. Consistent performances from Greg Ackles, Mike Smith, Mike Goode, Billy Wise, and Dennis Flaherty were also seen. Without these elements, the Profs would have not progressed as far as they did.

Playoffs? GSC has got to be highly applauded for their overwhelming performance.

After capturing the state title Glassboro moved on to the NCAA playoffs. Advancing into the finals, they were now close to winning a national division title. This dream was soon crushed, when defeated by Lemoyne Owens.

Basketball at GSC is at it's best. The J.V. team has much to talk about this year. Through the same quality of training and techniques as the varsity, the young profs dribbled away to one of the best records in the school's history. With this and returning players, the 75-76 season looks very promising indeed.

HUSTLE

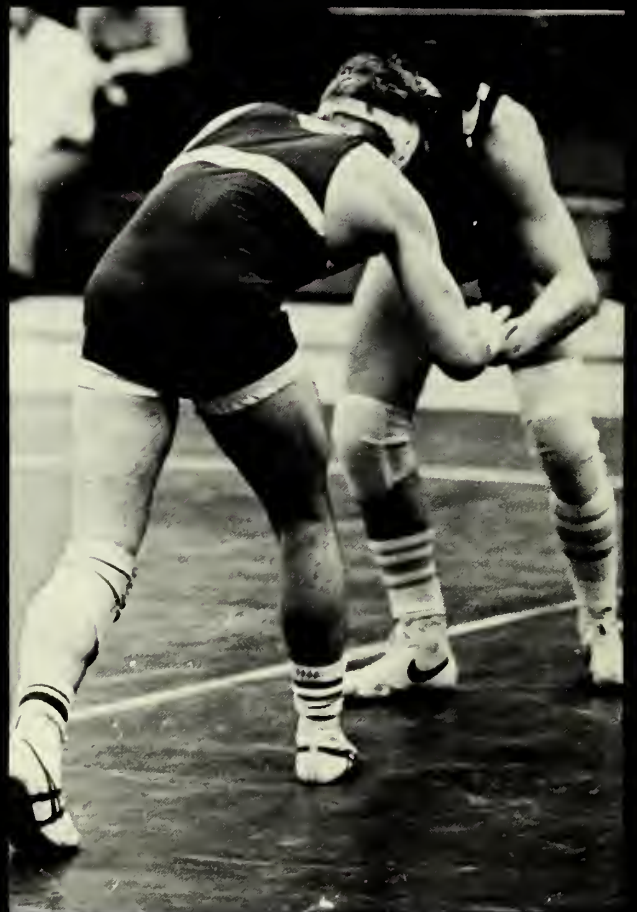

Glassboro's Women's basketball team had a very eventful season this year. Under the direction of head coach Pearl Kowalski and assistant coach Pam Curry, the girls finished the season with a commendable 8-6 record. After 4 wins and a loss in their conference, they were good enough to tie Paterson for first place, and went on to host the EAIW tournament.

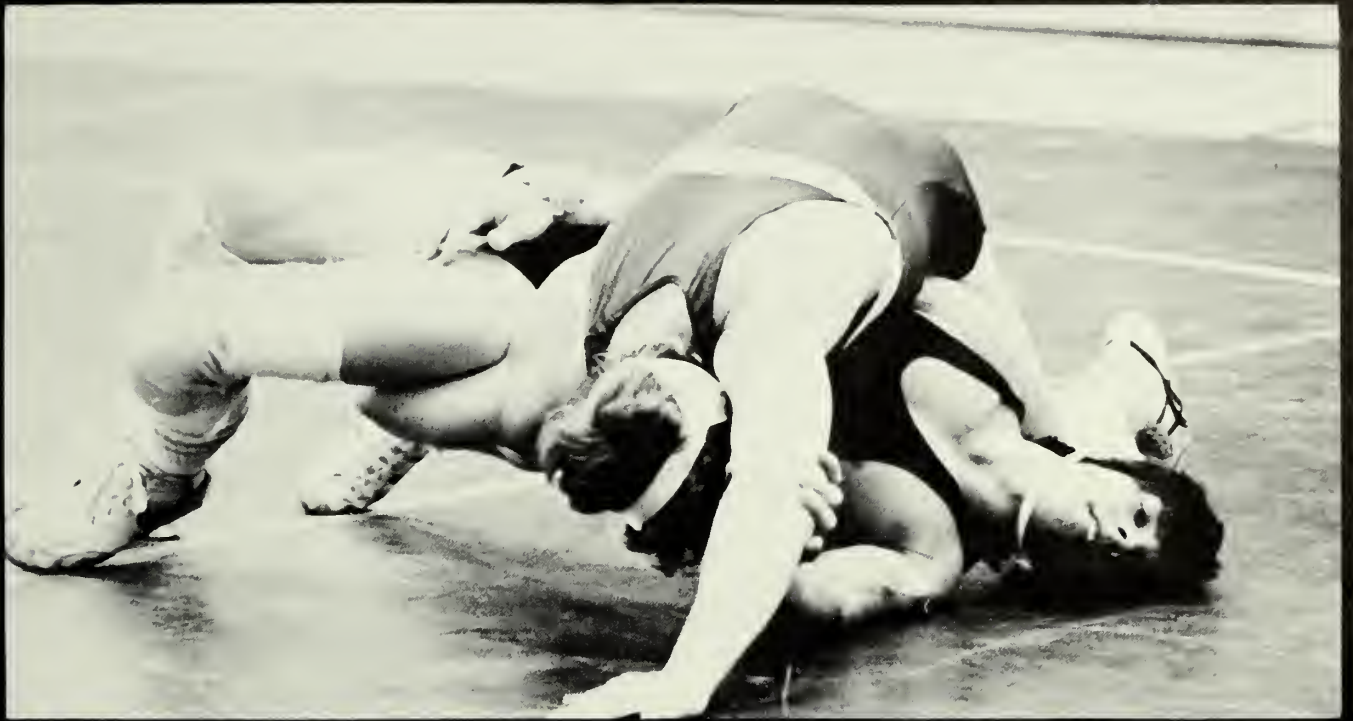

Starters for this year included Janice Alberti, Pat Butler, Michele Farrell, Donna Heyn, Ann Marie "Amil" Murphy, and Connie Zotos. Ms. Murphy, a senior and captain of the team for two years, was the first women in the Prof's history to score over 1,000 points. She was also nominated for a position on the Kodak All-American Team.

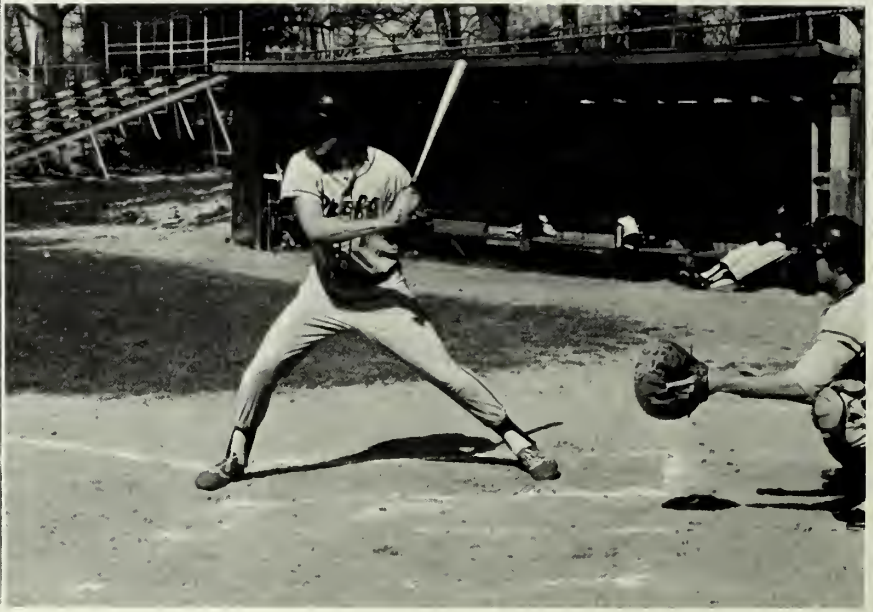

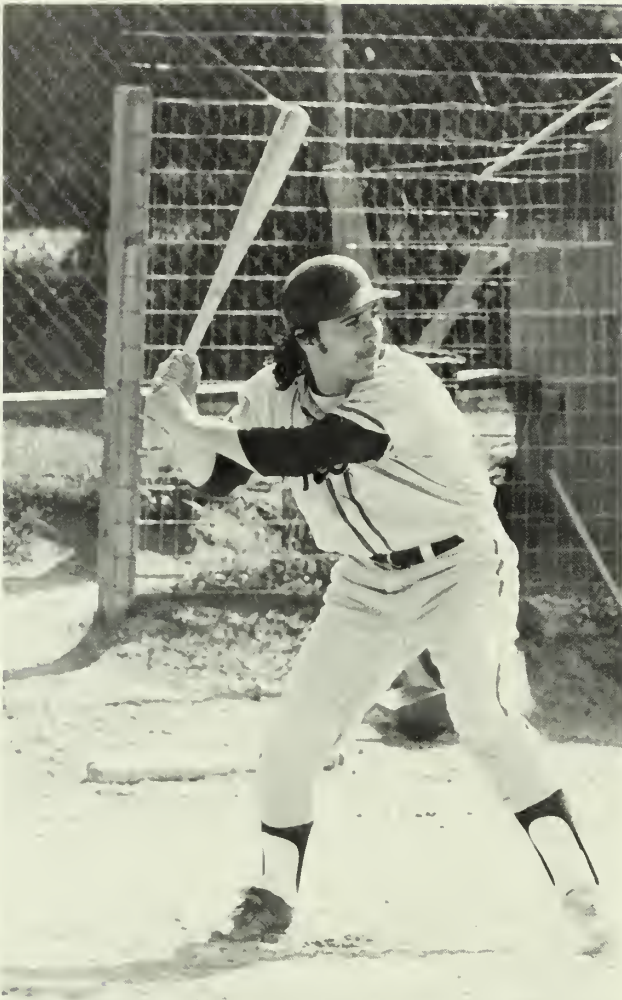

Of the starters, those returning to GSC are Janice, Pat, and Michele. With hopes of obtaining a few tall freshmen, Coach Kowalski is looking forward to another fine season next year.

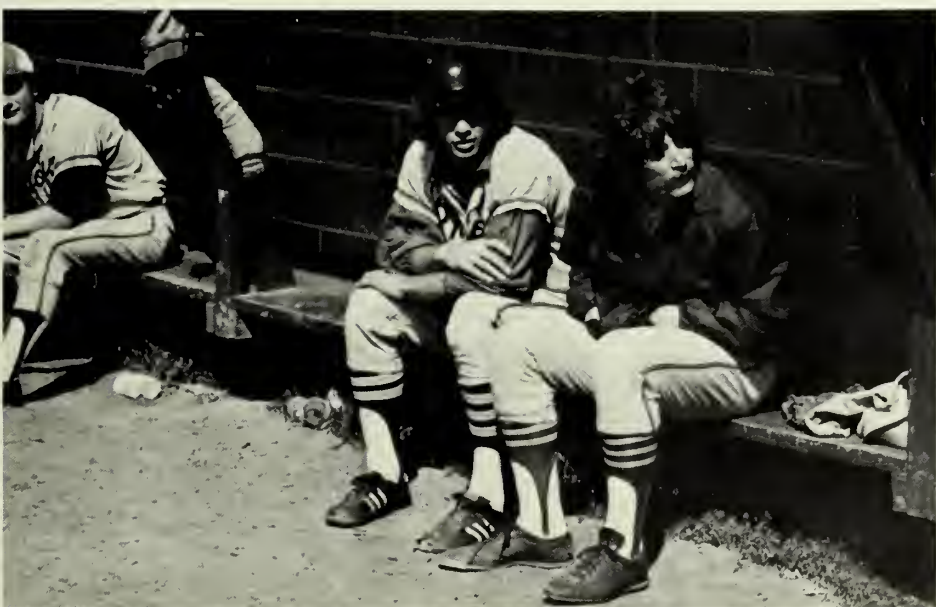

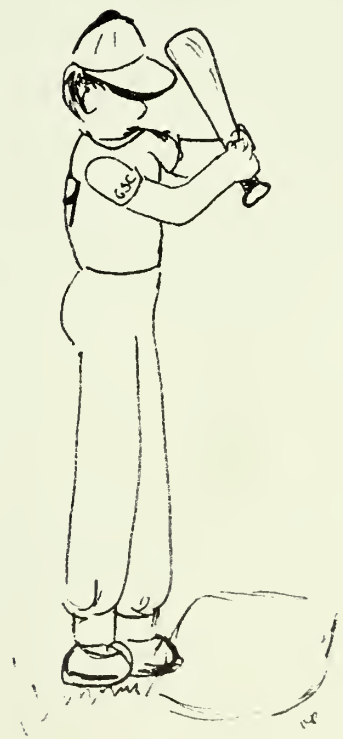

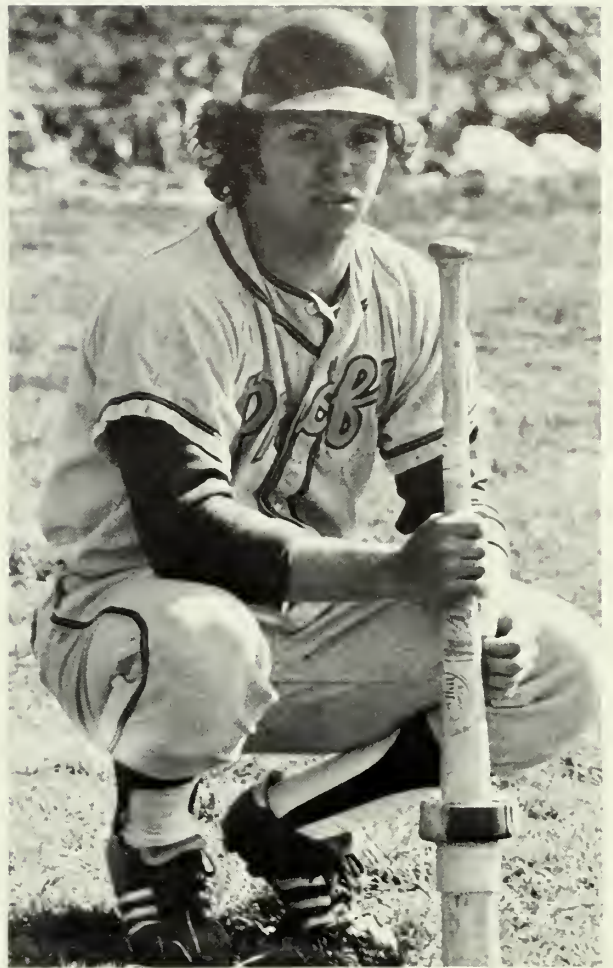

The Glassboro State Prof baseball season, played in series of streaks, resulted in a 12-8 season under Coach Mike Briglia. Briglia, who achieved his 200th career victory during the year, got his team off to a quick 4-0 start. However, the Profs lost five of their next seven games, including pivotal conference contests, to slip out of NJSCAC contention. The hitting attack became weak and the pitching erratic. "We knew before the season started that the first half would cause problems," Briglia said, pointing to the split of the teams first ten games.

But the Profs rebounded for a strong second half of the year, winning seven of the final behind the slugging of senior Tim Rinaldi and freshman Rick Lancellotti. Glassboro regained the respect it was touted to have all season. Steve Basca and Dan Corradetti were the pitchers that spearheaded the late season drive.

"If we're going to have an off-season," Briglia said later, "then let it be 12-8." The Profs, with many freshmen and sophomores in the starting line-up, should be loaded with talent for next year's edition.

Although this year's Men's Swim Team competed against its toughest opposition to date, they managed to uphold their conference crown for the third year in a row.

Out of a possible 13 team records, the pros broke 11 of them this season and went on to the Division III nationals under the expert guidance of Coach Ed Dear. At the Nationals, the 400 yard medley relay team, composed of Laur Beal, Norm Revere, Mike Recine, and team captain Jim Fulton, was named All-American. Senior Fulton placed ninth nationally in the 200 yard breaststroke event, was named All-American, and compiled a 56-2 career record for his outstanding competition in this event.

With an even tougher schedule for next season and only three graduating seniors, Coach Dear is anticipating another outstanding year for the swim team.

Under the direction of Head Coach Brenda Bolay and Assistant Coach Paula Blacksten, the women's swim team compiled a respectable 5 and 5 record this season, with three of the five losses going down to the last event in each meet.

In addition to a fine season, the Profs earned further recognition in the regional championships. Out of 87 entrants, the young team placed sixth in the freestyle relay event and 18th overall.

Some individual highlights include Sheli Bower, a senior and former holder of two national records, who took two second places nationally in the breaststroke event. Junior Rexy Kelley also had a good year, qualifying for the regionals in the breaststroke event. Other GSC swimmers who qualified for the regional championships were Thelma Chen, Carol Long, Lori Thurmond, Seniors Catie Allan, Sheli Bower and Kathy Ruhl.

Despite the team's numerous achievements, Coach Bolay considers the season to be "a building one". With only four graduating seniors, she anticipates an even better squad next year.

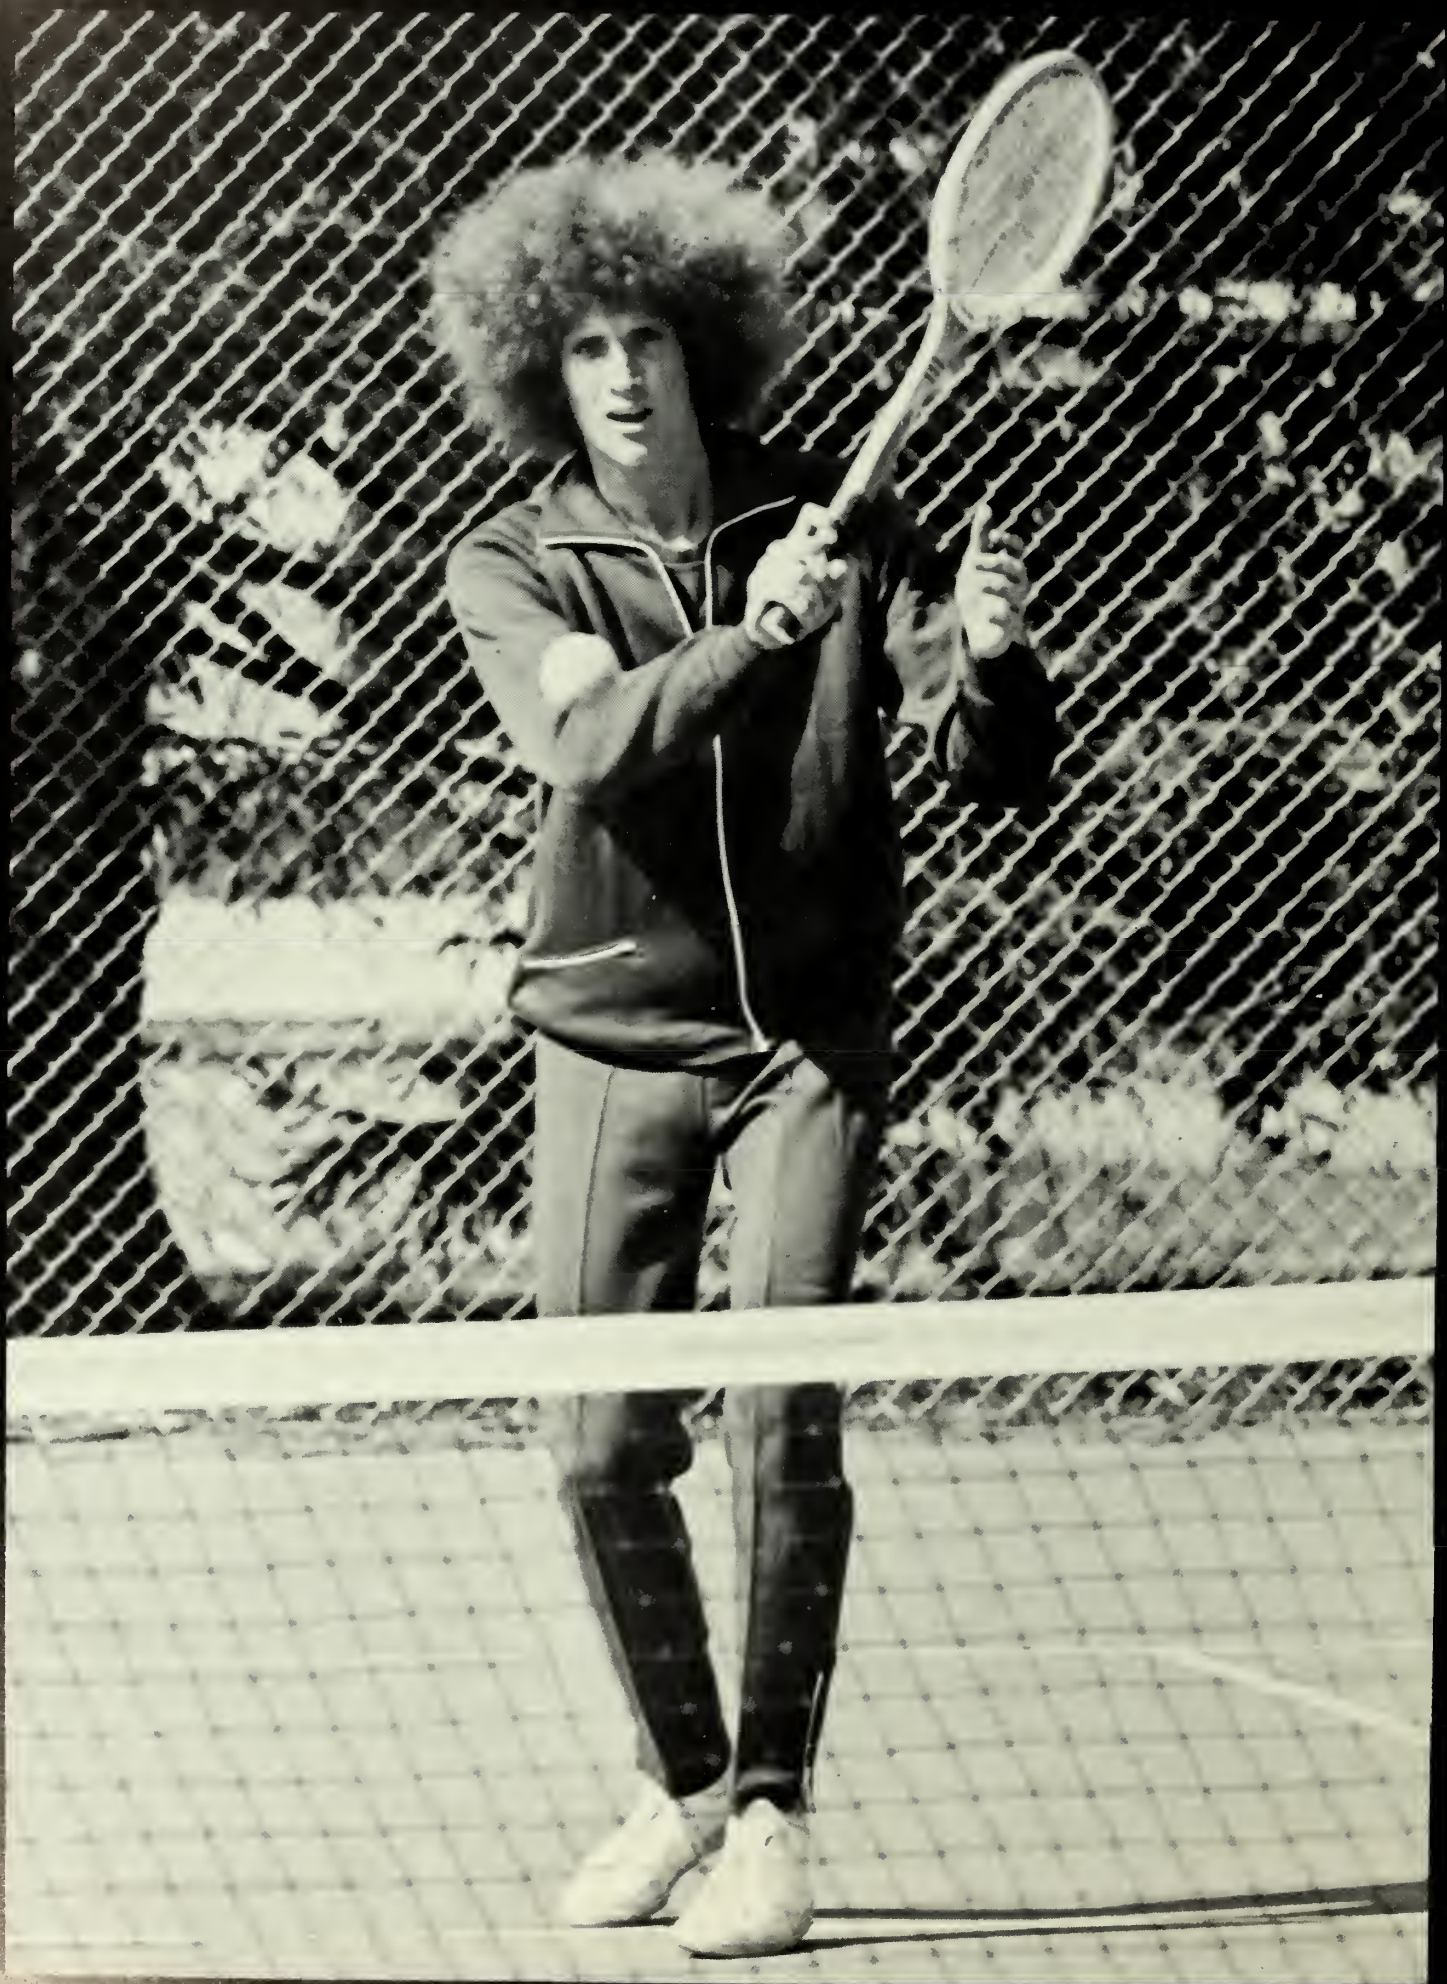

The women's lacrosse team under the direction of Shirley O'Day posted a 5-3 record as of this writing. The women have beaten all New Jersey State teams and a first time ever win over East Stroudsburg. Co-Captains Donna Heyn and Lois Rucci were standouts all through the season with their crucial goals and defense.

Glassboro State Profs were at their best for the 2nd consecutive year. The netmen captured the conference title while defeating arch rival Kean College.

Much emphasis is on the fact that the team was quite short on talent due to graduation. But nevertheless, profs moved up the ladder and came out on top.

Senior Morgan had a "great year" according to Fox, losing only one conference match, Tom Haydon moved into the third singles slot from a sixth spot during the season, and Rick Howell, Tony Morse, Bill Emery and Ted Kutzen showed great strength throughout the season.

ARCHERY

TRACK

Coach Moore's track team, again comes up with championship material. Only this time they boast a 10-3 record, the best in GSC history. Along with Bill Fritz, Coach Moore found much talent within Dave White and Jaime Morales. While John Wade, Miler Johann Murray, and Bob Zent Meyer gave the coach a place in the national meet at Cleveland, Ohio.

Frosh Ed Kirkwood set a GSC record in the high jump, while Kelvin Hopes lead the pros in the triple jump, during the season. Leading weightmen were shot putter Vince Shafer and discus man Dan Campbell.

All in all, the trackmen had a very rewarding season. They are among the many teams this year, that have enhanced the sports program.

After two wins and two losses at the start of the season, the Golf team went on to win 13 straight matches, resulting in an exceptional 15-2 record, the best in GSC history.

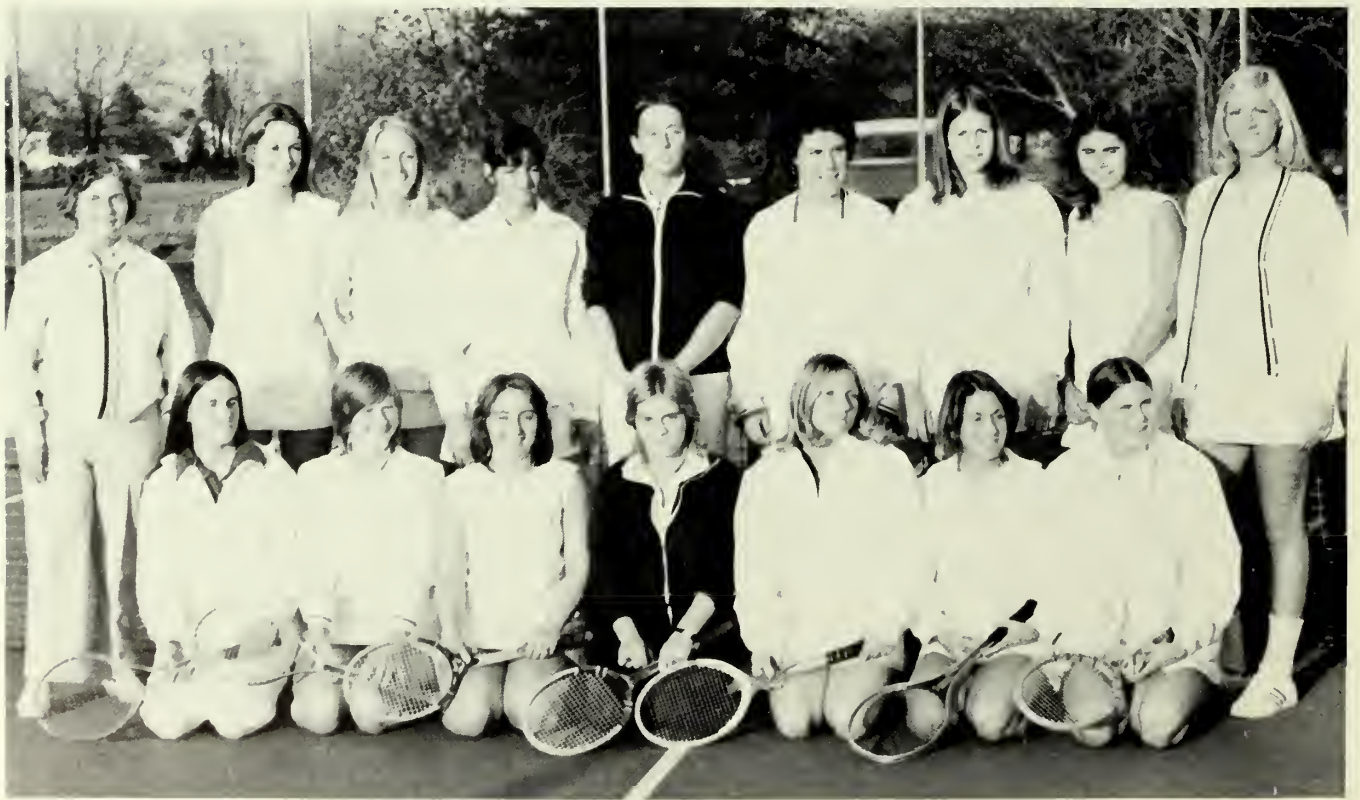

Under the direction of Coach Richard Wacker, the golfers boasted a 4-0 conference record and won their third consecutive NJSCAC crown. Co-captain Steve Tucker, voted the team's most valuable player, won the NJSCAC individual golf championship, and was named All-Conference along with Co-captain Fran Orlowski. Both seniors, Fran has been named All-Conference for three years and Steve for four years.

The six starters for '75 were Dave O'Connor, Mike Farreny, Kerry Mattern, John Davey, Steve Tucker and Fran Orlowski. Freshman Don Jones rounded out the squad as the seventh man.

Coach Wacker reports "a good nucleus" of golfers returning to form next year's team. Of the six starters, all of whom were medalists (achieving the lowest score in a particular match) at least once, only two seniors are scheduled to leave Glassboro.

The College is an abstract . . .
finding oneself, meeting people, making friends, dorm parties, group projects, class discussions —
. . . are reality.

"The educational process is not limited to the classroom experience
. . . a person's real growth is through one's life experience at college."

— Earl Quenzel
SGA Pres.-elect

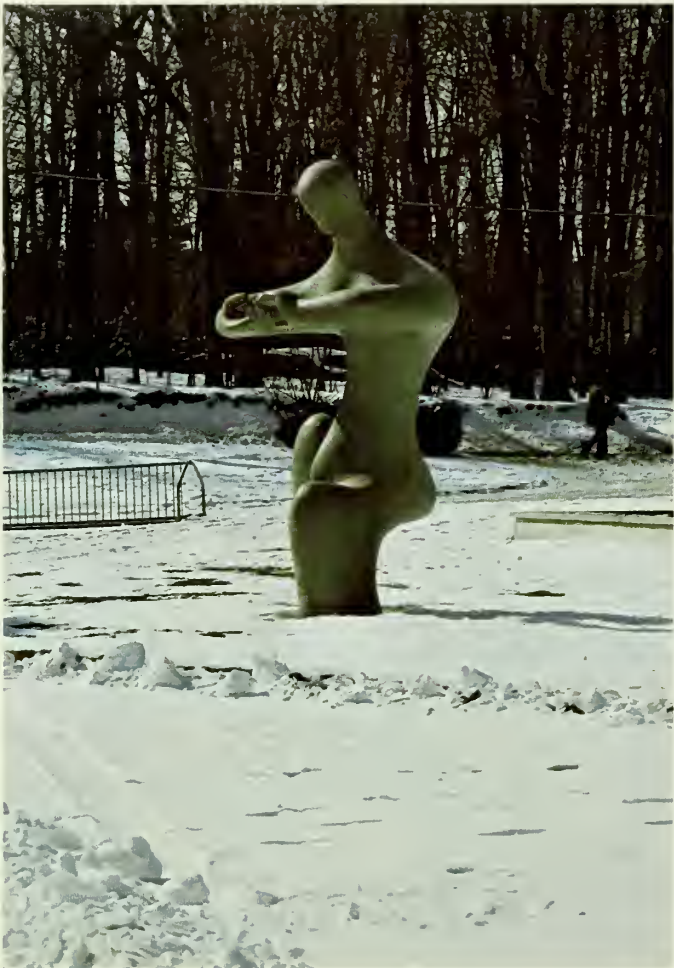

There's only one creature of the universe you can be certain of improving, and that's your own self.

— Aldous Huxley

striving for creativity . . .
each expresses his own individuality in his own fashion . . .

. . . at his own speed, and in his own time.

Image '75 has attempted through its articles and photographs to recapture the impressions of an often tumultuous and sometimes fiery year at Glassboro State. It was a year when educators "came out" from research and study in book-filled libraries to pounding bare asphalt; joining the ranks of thousands in the US chanting "strike" and making demands upon the already sagging economic structure of the state.

The office of the college President, Mark Chamberlain, also listened to demands for change. In a statement to the Board of Trustees, English professor Dr. Richard Mitchell called for Chamberlain's removal. The request was channeled into committee.

In order to more fully record the events of the year, Image switched to a fall delivery schedule, a first at Glassboro State. It is my hope and that of the yearbook staff that this will provide the reader with a more complete picture of GSC, 75.

This year I extend special thanks and appreciation to those staff members who donated above and beyond — Beth Fellmer, Ginny Harrison, and a new-comer, Marc Del Rey. Without their assistance and dedication, this book would not have been published. To everyone else who contributed, I sincerely thank you.

Mary K. Galloway existence. To have lived so as to look back with pleasure is to have lived twice.*
